

Sorority pledge list announced

Following two weeks of formal and informal rushing, 53 girls have pledged university sororities.

Pledges are:

Sigma Chi Omicron—Dorothy Cowger, president; Joanne Kurtz, vice-president; Betty Eillburn, secretary; Dorothy Mayhall, treasurer; and Kathleen Kirkbride, sergeant-at-arms. Other pledges are Lois Beebe, Janice Cooper and Zannette Milne.

Gamma Sigma Omicron—Eileen Jones, president; Dorothy Ann Drishaus, vice-president; Helen Premer, secretary; Jean Segelberg, treasurer; Martyne Akerson and Patricia Neevel, sergeant-at-arms. Also pledged are Betty Bertishofer, Joyce Boukal, Beverly Desberg, Helen Frandsen, Roberta Gross, Jeanne LeNoir, Betty Nygaard, Ruth Peterson, Maxine Sharpe, Willie Marie Sullenger, Alyce Jane Wal-

Retirement plan o.k.'d

After months of study by faculty and regents committees, the University of Omaha board of regents Saturday morning gave final approval to a retirement program for faculty and employees. Like a dream come true, the new retirement program has been in the minds of the university administration and regents for many years.

Sponsored by President Rowland Haynes, and given full support by the Douglas County legislative delegation, which helped to engineer the enabling act, L.B. 28, through the 1943 legislature, the plan becomes effective November 1.

With the establishment of the retirement program, President Haynes has seen the realization of another of his major objectives: the university's accreditation in the North Central association, the present new building, a tenure sys-

Four new names added to staff personnel at Omaha University

Four new names have been added to the faculty and staff personnel this semester—Dr. Hugh Tudor,

Mrs. Nuernberger

Mrs. Eileen Neurnberger, Rudolph Seidl, and Miss Lois Bird.

Dr. Tudor has been named associate professor in the department of history and government.

Mrs. Eileen Neurnberger is the new nurse in the student health office. She will also teach several health education courses in the women's physical education department.

Mrs. Neurnberger took her nurse's training at the University hospital and later had her academic training at the University of Nebraska. While a student at the state university, Mrs. Neurnberger worked as registered nurse in the student infirmary.

Before accepting the post here, Mrs. Neurnberger did private duty in Omaha. Her husband, Dr. Robert Neurnberger, is a flight sur-

Election of council members and class officers Wednesday

Honor roll board is dedicated at Founders' Day convocation

So that each former university student now with the armed forces overseas may receive a free carton of cigarettes for Christmas, sorority girls are cooperating with the University of Omaha Office of Information in obtaining complete and up-to-date mailing addresses of men and women in the service. Gateways will again be mailed this year to those not overseas.

Girls in Gamma Sigma Omicron, Phi Delta Psi, Pi Omega Pi, and Sigma Chi Omicron are cooperating with the information office.

The university honor roll board, which will include the names of more than 900 former students and faculty members serving with the armed forces, was dedicated at the Founders' Day convocation Friday morning. Mildred Cunningham, chairman of the student council, presented the board to President Rowland Haynes.

The board shows the branch in which the men and women are serving. The names, which are alphabetically arranged, are printed on fiber strips and are behind glass.

New names are being added all the time. A total of 384 new names were placed on the board last week. However, since it is impossible to secure the names of all the men and women in service, students are urged to help in the project by providing the information office with information on changes of address or rank and new names to be added.

Total enrolment now at 1,569

Combined enrollment at the university now totals 1,483, it was announced this week by the registrar. Early enrolment increases this year are shown in evening school registration, in the E.S.M.W.T. war-training program and in the number of student nurses taking work in the day school. A total of 378 students have registered for day classes this semester, plus another 616 in the School of Adult Education and 100 student nurses from the Methodist, Immanuel, and Jennie Edmundson hospitals.

Enrolment in government-sponsored war-training classes last month reached a total of 475 as compared to a figure of 228 a year ago at that time. Last year Oma-

Founders' Day observed Friday

Mrs. Olga J. Strimple was re-elected president of the University of Omaha Alumni association at the annual Founders' Day program and business meeting at the university Friday evening. Charles Matthews was elected vice president, and George Pardee and Ruth Saxton were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

The business meeting was just a part of the anniversary program which featured a convocation in the morning for students and alumni and a dinner and program in the evening.

Secretary Pardee presided at the morning convocation. George Mechem, former president of the school board, spoke and Capt. Charles Malec, on leave from the European war theater, was interviewed on his 25 raids over the continent by Harry Byrne, university regent. The university's honor roll board, containing the names of some 800 students and alumni now in the service, was presented to President Rowland Haynes at the close of the convocation.

Mrs. Strimple presided at the evening program. Talks on Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins, founder of Omaha university, were given by Dr. W. H. Thompson, dean of the arts col-

Students may apply for business managership

Charles Hoff, finance secretary, has asked that students interested in the position of business manager of student publications make application at once in the business office.

The student manager is in charge of the business details of the Gateway and all student publications.

THE WAR AND YOU

HOME ON LEAVE

Air corps officers who have been home on leave during the past few weeks are Ensign Don Elder, navy; Lt. Warren Whitted, army; Lt. Robert Knapp, army; and Capt. Charles Malec, army. Knapp is a member of the new army reconnaissance meteorology class—the first of its kind in the United States.

"Weather officers are trained to fly out and find the weather instead of waiting for the weather to come to them," said Knapp. "By taking observations and making weather maps in the air several hundred miles from the base, weather conditions at a certain point can be known in advance."

Malec is home on a 20-day leave after completing 25 raids over Europe. He is holder of the DFC, air medal and three oak leaf clusters. On 18 of Captain Malec's 25 missions he was bombardier in the lead plane. Eleven of the raids were over Germany. His greatest disappointment is that he missed being the first American to drop bombs on Germany. When that time finally came, Malec was farther back.

Malec also served as an instructor during his year in England. While there he visited with Capt. John Good, Lt. Vale Gamble, and Lt. John Munt, all former students here.

Also home on leave this week is Joe Thornell, who is now at Rutgers university in New Brunswick, N. J., taking specialized training in languages. "I suppose it is for duty with the army of occupation," said Thornell. "At any rate, I like it a lot."

Cadet Bob Rousek was in Omaha last week from the merchant marine radio school at Gallup Island, Mass. Both Thornell and Rousek are former Gateway staff members.

Walter Duda has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the marine air corps at Daytona Beach, Fla. He is a dive bomber pilot.

COMMISSIONED

Robert Cunningham, Donald Everman, Thomas Blinn, and Donald Elder have been commissioned ensigns in the navy air corps. Theodore J. McCullough has also been commissioned an ensign in the navy air corps and is assigned to a navy blimp squadron for anti-submarine patrol duty over coastal waters.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Seaver A. Seline is now at Enid air field taking his basic flying training.

Ensign Grenville Beem is now teaching navigation at Northwestern university, after two years at sea in the South Pacific.

Lt. Charles Huston is now classified as statistical officer in the army air force at Walla Walla, Wash.

Roger Hughes has been commissioned ensign in the naval intelligence and is awaiting call to active duty. He has just returned from two years of government work in Puerto Rico.

GIRLS IN THE SERVICE

Seven more university girls are now serving in the women's branches of the armed forces. Mildred Herrill, Rosemary Larson Clark, and Lystra Thomsen are in the WAC; Alice Merriam is a second lieutenant in that branch. Helen Mickna, Alberta Bailey and Joyce Crosby are WAVES.

Investment course is a sound investment

MASON CITY GLOBE-GAZETTE

I haven't met up with a more ingenious idea in the field of education in many a day than one that has been successfully used for some time by Prof. Roderic Crane of the school of business at the University of Omaha.

At the beginning of the school year in his class of investments and kindred business subjects, Crane sets up a theoretical drawing account of $20,000 for each student with instructions that it is to be invested in listed stocks the course of the year.

For those who come out solvent at the end of the year, there is a certain reflection of the accomplishment in the year's grade for the course. But those who come out solvent are few and far between.

Professor Crane has two objectives in this procedure. First, he wants his students to understand from experience that bucking the market is a tough job, with the chances against the adventurer. Second, he wants those who do try it to have some knowledge of the field.

Incidentally the deterring effect of the former has been ever so much more important, according to Professor Crane, than the second consideration.

Ruth Diamond, former instructor, writes, from England, where she is serving with the Red Cross: "At a Nebraska state gathering in London a young man rushed up to me and said 'It was you I saw several weeks ago at Picadilly!' It was Wayne Hansen. We had a jolly time talking over home news."

"I just purchased a bicycle. It is light weight but does not have the famous English three speeds. The English walk up the hills rolling their wheels beside them, but the Yanks and I find the hills a challenge and we ride as far as we can."

Ensign John R. Wright, '42, is on duty on a destroyer in the Pacific, while his wife, the former Jackie Leffingwell, has been in Australia doing Red Cross work.

Bill Peterson has been promoted to major in the army air corps and has received various medals for his activities in North Africa. He is credited with three enemy planes and has taken part in numerous raids.

Bob Haffke is getting his air corps training at the University of Pittsburgh.

Russel Cook is in the classification office at Fort Riley, Kan.

Mmmmm, hello—as the armless sightseer remarked; there won't be much point to this—hyack, hyack!!!

First off, welcome back to Bob Burford, Bette Davis and Ginny Powell—yes sir, good old Ginny Powell.

Male via Mail—Jane and Doug, Stevie and Smitty, Phyl and Roy, Kathie and Bob, Trudy and Kristy, Ginnie and Karl, Pauly and Dave, Adele and Larry, Liz Drishaus and Panska (really cookin'), Peck and Parsons, Jerry and Kay, and Ginny and Chuck.

Heard around the halls: Suzie, in gym class when handed a softball: "But, teacher, I can't pitch . . . ball!" How's about it, Duffy?

Still going strong—Patty and Wally, Patty M. and Don-Don, Mackie and Sis, Jean and Walt, Miller and Eddie, Devereux and Ernie. Also Bobbie Green and Glenn.

Rumor hath it that Pangle it at Creighton this year—wonder why?

Ode to the Greeks:

When those actives rushed and rushed
And now they have pins on their lapels.*
Hmmm, it rhymed a minute ago!

People we miss: Neef, Lindenwood; Dow, Mel, and Dutch at Nebraska; Larsen, Minnesota; Palmquist, Iowa, Williams, Wisconsin; Nell, K. U.

Congrats to Nan who celebrated her birthday and I-love-Pete-week last Friday. Also to Joann who is singing for the Founders' Day program.

Wonder what Devereux is going to do now? And Kay has been feeding a big, bad wolf right in her own back yard. Strange pet.

And so we leave Solvia Smutgfs. as she turns on her heel and walks off into the fog. (can't see her, can you?)

THE FRESHMAN CORNER

BARBARA MUIR

By this time most of us have settled down—just as if we had been here for years and years. It didn't take us long to find out that the "cafe" is a wonderful place to spend vacant hours, that the library is a fine place to sleep, and that on a warm day the park is very nice.

The girls' gym classes have been learning hockey, and Pat Neevel certainly takes her game seriously. She is probably responsible for the announcement that shin guards will be used at the next class period.

Jimmy Karabatsos has a new technique for saying hello to his girl friend. When his bus stopped along side the streetcar she was on, he reached through the window and began pulling her out.

Living in a wolf's paradise are Clayton Cowan and Calvin Spencer. They have the dubious pleasure of being the only men in the humanities class with 51 girls.

Shirlee Balaban might save money if she bought part of the streetcar company outright instead of spending about 40 cents for carfare everyday between here and Council Bluffs.

Homecoming and reception events are this month

Plans are under way for the annual reception for parents of new students, which will be held the evening of Oct. 27 in the university clubroom, and the Homecoming celebration, Oct. 29.

Homecoming arrangements will be completed as soon as the new members have been elected to the student council, according to Mildred Cunningham, chairman.

Mrs. Bernice Huffman, nurse, to speak here

Mrs. Bernice Huffman, executive secretary of the Missouri State Nursing Council for War Service, will speak at the University of Omaha Wednesday and Thursday, October 13 and 14.

Mrs. Huffman represents the National Nursing Council for War Service, and the United States Cadet Nurse Corps, the new government plan which, under the U. S. Public Health Service, offers a free professional education to qualified students. Her visit is part of a nation-wide endeavor to recruit 65,000 student nurses this year for wartime replacements caused by acute needs of the army, navy and civilian health agencies, and also to interest college women in preparation for post-war careers.

Mrs. Huffman is a graduate of the University of Illinois and of the Washington University School of Nursing at St. Louis.

Football

In case anyone is still asking why the university is not pledged to an intercollegiate football schedule this fall, the Gateway prints the real answer—direct from Dean W. H. Thompson, director of athletics.

After an extensive survey covering a period of two months, a committee composed of the dean, Ernest Adams, former coach and athletic director at Omaha university and one-time coach at Benson high school, and Harold C. Linehan, former athletic director at Creighton university, concluded that to pursue intercollegiate football this year would be contrary to the best interests of the players and the university.

Said Dean Thompson: "The committee decided that civilian schools having football material comparable to that here would be so few and far removed from Omaha that it would be impractical to schedule games with them this year. This recommendation has been well considered and was made only after a thorough study of the whole situation. The men who worked with me on this survey have had long experience in athletics and both had a sincere interest in doing that which would be best for Omaha university. I am making this recommendation to the president with confidence that it is the proper course for us to take at this time."

Dean Thompson pointed out that university students will have opportunity for competitive athletics in the school's expanded physical fitness and intramural program under the leadership of Stuart Baller.

V-12 test Nov. 9

The second qualifying test for the army specialized training program and the navy college V-12 program, which will be given throughout the country on Tuesday, November 9, will be administered at the University of Omaha, Roderic B. Crane, director of military information, announced today. A pamphlet of general information which contains an admission-identification form may be obtained at his office. This form properly filled out will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21 inclusive, who are recent high school graduates or who will be graduated by March 1, 1944. Students who intend to take the test should notify Mr. Crane immediately.

The same examination will be taken by both army and navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The army specialized training program and the navy college program enable students to continue academic training at government expense following induction into the armed services. Successful completion of the prescribed courses may, following further officer training, lead to a commission in the army or navy.

Dr. Benjamin Boyce has latest study published

"News from Hell", a compilation of satiric communications with the nether world in English writings of the 17th and 18th centuries, has been published by Dr. Benjamin Boyce, chairman of the English department of the University of Omaha, in the last issue of PMLA—Publications of the Modern Language Association.

"The extraordinary voyages and the journey to the moon so popular in French and English literature of the 17th and 18th centuries are now recognized literary types," says Dr. Boyce. "But another kind of imaginary voyage merits attention, one that goes back to the remote time when man, having evolved the idea of life after death, first thought with an archaic grin of the discomfort his enemies might feel when they were sent by death to his realm of shades and skeletons." Dr. Boyce's article traces the history in English literature in the 17th and 18th centuries of the depiction of hell for purposes of entertainment and satire.

Fellows appointed

Mary Fitzsimmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fitzsimmons, 5702 Pacific street, and Mary Alice Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson, 2874 Bauman Avenue, have been named humanities fellows for the year at the University of Omaha, Dr. Wilfred Payne, department head, announced Saturday. In addition to the fellowship, Miss Fitzsimmons has been awarded the William H. Schmoller music scholarship for the second time this year and Miss Johnson has a university scholarship.

"Fellows in the humanities preside in the small discussion groups to encourage discussion and stimulate expression among the students," said Dr. Payne. "They are chosen for their attractive personality and enthusiasm for the course as well as their high scholastic ability."

Teaching views of life instead of subject matter in humanities classes has gained the university considerable recognition. Dr. Payne receives frequent requests for explanations of the tutoring method used and also for information on what should be included in such a course.

Women and war

There are two sets of motives which influence women when they are deciding whether they should direct their energies toward the survival of the nation or the preservation of its cultural values. One includes real, the other, false motives.

The real motives that have convinced some women students that they should abandon liberal-arts studies for immediate war service are: concern over the survival of the nation, and the conviction that only outside of the University can they make their maximum contribution to their nation. The false motive that has swayed others is fear of being thought unpatriotic if they continued in school.

The real motives that should guide the women who decide to continue their liberal education are a genuine concern for the preservation of cultural values, and a conviction that by continuing in school they can make their greatest contribution to the nation. The false, unjustifiable motive is fear of the discomfort and hardship that would attend leaving the University for service in industry, agriculture, or one of the auxiliary armed services.

This simple, sane analysis avoids the emotional emphasis that has frequently been placed on the problem. Too often it has been attacked by contrasting life in Guadalcanal and a Berkeley sorority, concluding that college women are unjustifiably leading soft lives while marines fight and die . . .

While others are working and fighting, the women who choose the course of continuing to seek a liberal education must accept the responsibility of learning and understanding. They must sincerely strive to acquire the background knowledge that will be needed when the time comes to build the peace.

They must remain apart from the hatreds of war. Theirs is a haven of refuge from blood and sweat, but the function of this haven is not to enable a group of young women to live comfortably while their brothers and sisters are fighting and working. Its function is to turn out people who will be ready to carry on the cultural values of our civilization; to guarantee that there will be no bankruptcy of informed, educated opinion after the war and in the years to come; to guarantee that this generation will suffer the least possible handicap in carrying out its future responsibilities because its education was cut short by a world conflagration.—The Daily Californian.

"An ideal plant," says Dr. Hugh Tudor new professor at the University

DR. TUDOR

Although Dr. Hugh Tudor, associate professor in the department of history and government, has been on the campus but a few weeks, he is very much pleased with what he has found here.

"Omaha university has an ideal plant," he told a Gateway reporter. "I don't believe there is another like it in the United States."

"It is very different here from New Mexico State Teachers college where I had been teaching," he admitted. "The school there is old and small as the population of Silver City itself is only about 5,000. The people dress like cowboys and ride to school on horseback. They are very individualistic and express their opinions freely."

Dr. Tudor's hobbies are music, hiking and tennis. He sang in the glee club at college and took part in light opera. He sings in his church choir now. His undergraduate days were spent at Simpson college. Later he studied at the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa and taught at Morningside for two years and in Silver City nine years. While in New Mexico, he organized and directed the Otis lecture course.

"I enlisted in the last war and served 13 months," he said, "and I would like to get into this war, too, if they would have me."

Here at the university he is teaching in the field of government. He has classes in comparative government, political theory, American government, and a night course on the history of England.

He expects his wife, daughter and two sons the last of this week. Their home is at 3212 Lincoln boulevard.

Payne Gets Letter

President Levering Tyson of Muhlenberg college, Allentown, Pa., has written to Dr. Wilfred Payne for information regarding the humanities course here at the university. Said President Tyson: "I have read the newest books in this field and consider Omaha university's course one of the better courses of its kind."

NEW FACULTY

geon overseas with the army air corps.

Rudolph Seidl, well-known Omaha and Council Bluffs orchestra conductor, has been named director of the university orchestra. Miss Elizabeth Kaho of the music faculty will direct the university chorus this year. Both the orchestra and chorus were formerly under the direction of Richard Duncan, who now has a military leave of absence from the university.

Miss Lois Bird, for the past four and a half years librarian in Dakota Wesleyan, has been named circulation librarian. Miss Bird received her master's degree in English from the University of Wisconsin and her library diploma from the same institution. All new appointments have been approved by the board of regents.

Roderic B. Crane has been appointed acting chairman of the department of economics at the university. Also announced is the resignation of Dr. Walter A. Weisskopf of the economics faculty. Mr. Crane is also serving as director of the placement office and the military information bureau.

tem for the faculty and now faculty and employee retirement.

Under provisions of the retirement plan, a university employee may receive a maximum monthly retirement of approximately $115, although the average monthly benefit for the entire staff of faculty, administrative and maintenance employees will be $55.90. The monthly annuity for various individuals will be greater or smaller depending upon the length of future service and the salary paid to the individual during his employment by the university. The plan calls for retirement at age 65, with provision for limited extensions of service to age 70, subject to special action of the board.

The program will be financed with joint contributions by the employees and the university for the purchase of individual retirement annuities from the United Benefit Life Insurance Company of Omaha, and decreasing term life insurance on a collective basis from the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association of New York. Deductions of 5 per cent will be made from the monthly salary of all university employees. This amount will be matched by the university.

Morris Jacobs was chairman of the regents retirement committee. Other members were A.D. Majors, T. F. Naughtin and Harry Byrne. Dr. Wilfred Payne served as faculty chairman, assisted by Dr. Benjamin Boyce, Dr. Nell Ward, Prof. Fred Farrar and Charles Hoff, finance secretary.

President Haynes welcomed the alumni and Mr. Pardee presented the university with a plaque to be placed on the original piano selected for the school by Dr. Jenkins. Letters were read from Mrs. Clyde Nicholas of Spirit Lake, Iowa, president of the class of 1918, and Dean Walter Halsey of Appleton, Wisconsin. Several vocal selections were presented by Miss Joann Mengedoh.

Evening school chooses Lyons

James Lyons has been elected president of the University of Omaha School of Adult Education student council for the coming year.

Other officers representing the 600 evening school students are: Charles Lewis, vice president; Alice Jackson, secretary; Vira Deal, social chairman, and Margaret Latham, news reporter. Members of the advisory board are Margaret Harrison, Mary Galligan, Claire Lyons, Richard Koenig, Carolyn Goddard, Doris Lum, Florence Runyan, John Foley, Betty Ross, Keith O'Brien, Mary Jean Fisher, Marjorie Eivins, Jane McCloud, Elaine Holman, Bill Arms and Lorna Prebble.

A movie hour from 6:30 to 7:30 last Thursday evening was the first program of the year. Dr. Christopher S. Espinosa spoke on South America and movies about the Latin-American countries were shown.

A Thanksgiving dance in November is tentatively planned.

ENROLMENT

ha university was sponsoring only one class at the Glenn L. Martin bomber plant, but data from the office of Dean C. W. Helmstadter show that 11 of the present 23 war-training classes are being held there. Altogether last year the university gave technical war training to more than 1,000 men and women. Increased registration last month in the university's E. S. M. W. T. division points to another large enrolment in these classes during the coming months.

Various public training programs which will be offered during the year by the university will enable the institution to serve several thousand people during the 1943-44 year. Last year, for example, the institution provided training for more than 3,000 people through its day and evening classes.

STUDENT ELECTION

Nominees for freshman class officers are: president, Betty Bertlshofer and Ralph Marrs; vice-president, Jean Liggett and Robert Roy; secretary-treasurer, Lois Beebe and Carol Mosier. Freshman girls running for student council are Dorothy Drishaus, Lois Koopman, Joanne Kurtz, Dorothy Mayhall, Shirley Sims, and Dorothy Steel. Boys are Lee Bernstein, Robert Schleiger, Harlan Swanberg, and Keith O'Keefe.

Nominees for the board of student publications are John Foley and Wallace Rankin.

Nominees were approved by the council Thursday. Adele Pangle and Don Swanson are in charge of the election this year.

Freshman mixer to be October 15

Mildred Cunningham, chairman of the student council, announced today that the annual Freshman Mixer will be held in the university auditorium from 9 to 12 the evening of Oct. 15. Marilyn Alley is chairman of the committee on arrangements. She will be assisted by Jane Griffith and Dorothy Devereux.

Miss Cunningham also announced that the council voted to cooperate with the dean of students office in supervising the student lounge. The lounge will be open from 11:30 a.m., to 3:30 p.m. each school day.

Earl back from M U

Dr. James M. Earl, head of the mathematics department, taught army basic courses and premeteorology at the University of Minnesota this summer.

Class periods of army students were devoted to lectures, followed by supervised study periods. This made for more efficient teaching, and enabled the classes to cover the ground faster, he said.
